Lawrence J. Weiss, Ph.D. Founder, President and CEO Center for Healthy Aging 11 Fillmore Way, Reno, NV 89519 775-376-3210 Larry@addinglifetoyears.com For more than 45 years, Dr. Lawrence J. Weiss has assessed and developed high quality, cost effective public and private health and human services for elders. He has served roles that encompassed health education and aging services administration, research and management, program planning and development, and process evaluation. Dr. Weiss was an Adjunct Associate Professor, University of Nevada School of Medicine and School of Nursing, and Associate Faculty in Public Health. He was the Director of the Sanford Center for Aging at the University of Nevada, Reno for 12 years, as well as the Director, TCONN (Transitional Care of Northern Nevada) for 3 years. Dr. Weiss has served on several public health and education organizational boards, including NV Public Health Foundation, Circle of Life Hospice Foundation, National Council on Aging, Fellow of the Gerontological Society of America, Native American Suicide Prevention program, and delegate to the White House Conference on Aging His current responsibilities include the design, development, implementation of geriatric and gerontology programming, research, consultation, and community education and service programs at the Center for Healthy Aging (CHA). He is the Founder and CEO of the Center. The mission of the CHA is to develop innovative, effective, and efficient programs through research, education, and services designed to improve the quality of life. He also administers the local Lifeline services for frail elders at-risk of falling and prescription medication dispensing. The Center has developed innovative programs for elders such as Elder Gap Services, Elder care in the workplace, Respite training for caregivers, and most recently has developed two programs from the AmeriCorps VISTA federal program that utilizes elder volunteers as Senior Health Advocates and in a Senior Healthy Walking Program. Dr. Weiss has many publications including a book, "Managing the Continuum of Care" and has had a monthly article in the Senior Spectrum for over 25 years. He has co-hosted a radio program "Sanford Salute to Seniors" and TV AARP program. His passion is to have elders age well. Dr. Weiss received his B.A. degree in Psychology from the University of California, Berkeley, and his M.A. and Ph.D. in Health Psychology at the University of California, San Francisco.
